Gold bugs like to look at the yellow metal as a "safe haven," but lately gold has been anything but safe. It's tanked 18% since last fall, trading recently at about $1,460.

What's going on? Investors who bought gold for safety have been switching into stocks, on the theory that risks of major disasters like Europe blowing up or the U.S. slipping into prolonged recession are receding.

But gold looks like a buy in the pullback, believes Thomas Winmill of the Midas Fund (MIDSX), since all of the same potential problems lurk around the globe. Besides Europe, a big issue that could have people driving up gold again is the huge monetary easing by central banks and the deficit spending by governments around the world. These moves can easily rekindle worries about inflation -- and investors often buy gold to hedge against inflation.

Many gold bugs think the metal is always a buy, but it does make sense to hold some gold in your portfolio as insurance against investor panics caused by fears of war, a meltdown in Europe or a bad turn in the U.S. economy. In these scenarios, gold would rise, offsetting declines in your stocks. To invest in gold, consider the Midas fund, iShares Gold Trust (IAU) or SPDR Gold Shares (GLD).

More slide shows on MSN Money:

- 7 big worries about this economy
- 10 best stocks of 2013 (so far)
- 15 cool tech gadgets you can wear

Gold

Gold isn't the only commodity taking a beating this year and poised for a turn. So if sky-high stocks are making you nervous, take a stake in something like . . . steak.

Michael Brush, MSN Money

- Bing: How gold beats inflation

More on MSN Money:

- 7 top stocks under $5
- Celebrities who tip well -- or not
- 8 ways your 401k is failing you
- 10 reasons to worry about retirement
- Dumbest CEO mistakes ever
- 10 things that can kill your credit score

Video on MSN Money

Featured

Top Picks

Market News

Popular Now

Currencies

NAME | LAST | CHANGE | % CHANGE
--- | --- | --- | ---

DOW | 15,276.91 | -30.26 | -0.20
NASDAQ | 3,454.25 | -9.05 | -0.26
S&P | 1,647.65 | -7.70 | -0.47
Russell 2000 | 976.07 | -6.18 | -0.63
10 Yr Note | 97.34 | -0.03 | -0.03

More Market News

Stock Ticker

Story Stocks

In Play

Short Stories

Feedback

AdChoices

MARKET UPDATE

US INTERNATIONAL

NAME | LAST | CHANGE | % CHANGE
--- | --- | --- | ---

DOW | 15,276.91 | -30.26 | -0.20
NASDAQ | 3,454.25 | -9.05 | -0.26
S&P | 1,647.65 | -7.70 | -0.47
Russell 2000 | 976.07 | -6.18 | -0.63
10 Yr Note | 97.34 | -0.03 | -0.03

[BREFING.COM] The major averages have climbed off their lows, but they continue to trade in the red. The S&P 500 is off by 0.7% since last fall, trading recently at about $1,460.

In the financial sector, major components trade lower across the board while the broader SPDR Financial Select Sector ETF (XLF 19.62, -0.20) sports a loss of 1.0%.

Elsewhere, the utilities space is lower by 2.1% amid weakness in all sector components.

With equities ... More

More on MSN Money:

- 7 top stocks under $5
- Celebrities who tip well -- or not
- 8 ways your 401k is failing you
- 10 reasons to worry about retirement
- Dumbest CEO mistakes ever
- 10 things that can kill your credit score

Video on MSN Money

Featured

Top Picks

Market News

Popular Now

Currencies

NAME | LAST | CHANGE | % CHANGE
--- | --- | --- | ---

DOW | 15,276.91 | -30.26 | -0.20
NASDAQ | 3,454.25 | -9.05 | -0.26
S&P | 1,647.65 | -7.70 | -0.47
Russell 2000 | 976.07 | -6.18 | -0.63
10 Yr Note | 97.34 | -0.03 | -0.03

[...]